Two injured in crash with 18-wheeler

BY STACEY CATO

Two people were injured in a crash at Rocky Hill Dedeaux Road on Friday evening when the pick-up truck they were riding in crashed into an 18-wheeler.

"What had happened was, the driver of the 18-wheeler was backing into his driveway and was hit by (the other) vehicle," Hancock County Emergency Management Agency Director Brian "Hootie" Adam said.

Fenton Volunteer Fire Department Chief Wade Ladner said the accident occurred at a little before 7 p.m. when the 1999 Chevy 1500, traveling west on Rocky Hill, slammed into the 18-wheeler near the back end of the vehicle.

Both the pick-up driver and a passenger "were pretty roughed up," Ladner said. Fenton firefighters used the "jaws of life" to rescue the pair from the truck before Monday discussed tax abatement approval for the Pearl Hotel.

P.J. Mauffray spoke to the board on behalf of owner and developer, The Cure Land Co.

Mauffray said the developer has plans to construct a four-story, 59-room hotel at the corner of Main Street and Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis, directly across from the Hancock Bank building. That includes 5,550 square-feet of ground-level commercial and restaurant space, he added, which will consist of three separate units.

The developer on Monday submitted its application for consideration in the county's Commercial Development Incentive Program.

According to the county's website, the purpose is to "promote private investment and growth in specific areas throughout Hancock County. If qualified, the exemption will allow for up to 100 percent abatement of county ad valorem taxes (excluding school taxes, road and

As of press time Tuesday, five candidates had entered the circuit clerk's race so far, including Kendra "KK" Ladner Necaise; Kevin Ladner; Ray Ladner, Jr.; Johnny Rutherford; and Tammy Garber.

Waveland man jailed for child molestation, sexual battery

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

Waveland police on Monday arrested a 74-year-old man on multiple counts of sexual battery, child molestation and showing sexually-oriented material to a child, but investigators say more alleged victims are starting to come forward.
Harry Trest, who lives in the 100 block of Lakewood Street in Waveland, was charged Monday "on four counts of sexual battery, four counts of child molestation and four counts of dissemination of sexually-oriented material to a child," Prendergast said in a press release. "He was booked into the Hancock County Correctional Facility with no bond until his initial court appearance.

The alleged victims in the case are both girls under the age of 10, authorities said, and the abuse allegedly occurred over a four-year span.
"At least four additional victims from two other states have come forward with new allegations," since Trest's arrest was first reported, Investigator Jamie Nelson said Tuesday.

Harry Trest

"This spans back into the early '90s and what's sad is, they were all very young, between the ages of five and 13 when it happened," Nelson said, and Trest was in a position of trust for all of the alleged victims.
Trest, a Laurel native, has lived in several other states over the years, Prendergast said, including Alabama, Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Missouri, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Carolina, Ohio, Virginia and South Carolina.
"He has bounced from state to state," Nelson said. "He doesn't stay anywhere for more than three or four years. Plenty of money and a passport -- it's scary. ... We don't know how many of these girls" are involved.

Nelson urged other witnesses to come forward as quickly as possible.
She said the Waveland

Police Department has reached out to other agencies in several other states to pursue additional leads.
"If anyone has any additional information that may benefit the investigation, contact the Waveland Police Department and speak with Investigator Jamie Nelson at 228-467-3669," Prendergast said.

Partial Government Shutdown Ends, Need for Food along the Gulf Coast Remains

SEA COAST ECHO

As of Friday, January 25, the federal government reopened. This means the 800,000 furloughed and unpaid government workers will begin receiving paychecks. However, the continuance only guarantees normal operations until February 15. Should a compromise not be met, previously affected agencies will again shut down.
While Feeding the Gulf Coast is relieved by this news, concerns remain about the shutdown's lingering effects. Federal workers are expected to be paid, but more than one million federally contracted employees are unlikely to receive back pay. This is a significant financial impact, as almost 10% of their yearly pay was lost during the shutdown. Feeding the Gulf Coast anticipates that both federal workers and contractors will continue to need assistance as they recover from the financial impact of the five-week shutdown.

Since the partial government shutdown, Feeding the Gulf Coast has helped provide food to more than 600 families of government workers throughout the Central Gulf Coast. Conducting four targeted distributions throughout its service area, the food bank was able to serve several affected governmental agencies. Two additional agencies have requested that distributions previously scheduled for this week proceed out of concern for impacted employees.
"It's what we do. Helping families ensure they can put a meal together to share with their family is our part in maintaining stability during times of uncertainty, and those we serve have been eager to share their appreciation. We are here, and we will continue to be the food lifeline for our community," says Cathy Pope, President & CEO of Feeding the Gulf Coast.

The food bank still has organizations hosting food drives to benefit workers impacted by the shutdown. As it anticipates the continuing increased need and works to keep its shelves stocked, Feeding the Gulf Coast encourages you to consider hosting a food drive of your own or making a monetary donation designated for shutdown relief. For more information on how to give, visit the website at www.feedingthegulfcoast.org or call (888) 704-FOOD.
About Feeding the Gulf Coast:
Feeding the Gulf Coast, formerly Bay Area Food Bank, serves a 24-county area spanning south Alabama, south

Mississippi and the Panhandle of Florida. In 2018, the food bank distributed over 22 million meals to over 400 church pantries, soup kitchens and other nonprofit organizations throughout its service area. The food bank also operates multiple hunger-relief and nutrition programs, including Summer Meals, Afterschool Meal, Backpack, Disaster Relief, Mobile Pantry and Produce Drop Distributions, Nutrition Education, and SNAP Outreach. Saints fans are one of a kind

I'm sure you've seen or heard about it by now, Monday's front page of the Times-Picayune.

It was completely blank with only the following text , "Super Bowl? What Super Bowl?"

It was in reference to the now infamous no-call that probably cost the New Orleans Saints a trip to the big game.

I can certainly appreciate a little bit of petty now and then.

But in true New Orleans spirit, the fans hosted a big party, the "Boycott Bowl." I saw the videos and pictures. They were full of die-hard Saints fans who looked like they were having a great time celebrating the team they love so much.

Now, this girl here is not much of a football fan. I know little to nothing about the game.

During my stint at the Picayune Item newspaper, I spent three football seasons covering the Poplarville Hornets. Here I was, the girl with no football experience, standing on the sidelines with the team carrying a huge camera and lens, a notebook, and doing to my best to avoid being tackled by players.

However, much to my surprise, after becoming great friends with the stats guy, I started to root for the Hornets. Their game chant, "Here we go again" still gets stuck in my head. I still keep up with their progress from afar, but am secretly relieved I'm not sweating it out on the sidelines hoping to write a decent story about the game.

I also root for the New Orleans Saints. My Paw Paw was a die-hard fan. He never gave up on the team. He passed away in 2008 and, sadly, missed the moment when the Saints won the Super Bowl in 2010.

But my dad was there. Growing up, our Sundays were filled with church, a roast for Sunday dinner, and my daddy yelling at the television during the games.

The Saints' win is the only Super Bowl I can remember paying much attention to. But the smile on my dad's face was worth it. He immediately ordered all the memorabilia.

Through all the ups and downs that come with being a Saints fan, the fans' loyalty to the team has not wavered. They may get mad, but still love the boys in black and gold no matter what.

There is something special about Saints fans. And New Orleans took what could have been an opportunity to potentially spew hate into a fun-filled celebration of the team that means so much to not only the city, but to many throughout the country.

Even though I still won't be watching football all the time, I'll always root for the Saints. And I was certainly proud of how the fans represented themselves to the rest of the world this past Sunday.

House Democratic Caucus Report

House members are preparing to address a number of important issues when they come to the floor in the days ahead. We've spent the past week or so in committee meetings considering measures that must be passed by committee by Tuesday, February 5, or they die for the session. We anticipate a busy couple of days in advance of the deadline.

One bill that was passed out of committee last week is House Bill 1349, which is an omnibus bill to address several issues faced by our public schools. At the forefront of concerns for House Democrats is teacher pay, and HB 1349 falls far short of proposing an adequate pay raise for our educators. In fact, it includes only $2,000 across the board, spread over two years. That equals less than $5 per day. With a teacher shortage crisis underway, such meager offerings do nothing to encourage our best and brightest to teach. Given that Mississippi has shorted its public school system by about $2 billion dollars in the last ten years, it is hard to understand why anyone would think this proposal is acceptable. It certainly is not to us, and we will do what we can to change it on the floor.

House Democrats have proposed raising the starting pay for teachers to $40,000 and providing a $3,000 per year raise for teacher assistants. House Democrats have also been vocal advocates of criminal justice reform for many years. House Bill 1352, titled "The Criminal Justice Reform Act," is expected to be passed out of the Judiciary B committee prior to the deadline. It contains provisions to reduce penalties for acts perpetrated as a result of drug or alcohol addiction, provides for expungement of records in certain instances, and limiting the automatic revocation of driver's licenses, and loosening restrictions on licensing for individuals who have been living productive lives since criminal convictions a set number of years in the past. While we believe this bill should be further refined to address some potential unanticipated consequences, we are looking forward to supporting this needed reform package.

We presented Democratic Caucus proposals for economic justice reform during our weekly press briefing last week. Our members have filed bills to address such issues as an earned income credit, lowering child care costs, securing equal pay for equal work, raising the minimum wage, and providing state employees their first raise in 13 years. We believe that the best way to improve the lives of Mississippi families is to increase opportunities for work and to increase the real wages they earn.

A measure has recently surfaced at the Capitol that must be defeated in order to protect the safety of patrons on the premises of stores and other businesses where we shop. House Bill 337 seeks to absolve property owners of the responsibility to protect those who they invite onto their property against violent acts of third parties. If passed, this act would do away with the property owner's incentive to provide security cameras,

“Baria aims to change state flag”

Dear Editor,

The following is taken directly from the MS Declaration of Succession from the United States where it is clearly stated that MS as with other states of the confederacy, seceded from the union in order to preserve an economy dependent on the enslavement of other human beings.

“A Declaration of the Immediate Causes which Induce and Justify the Secession of the State of Mississippi from the Federal Union”.

Over the past 150 plus years the defeat of those in support of slavery has taken on the mystique of southern gentility and loyal sons and daughters of the confederacy defending their hearth and home from an oppressive federal government. When in fact many who fought both affluent and less affluent, were slave owners and needed the benefit of free labor to sustain their livelihood. Many others were poor working people who were conscripted into the confederacy to fight and die for the slave owners.

As southerners we have much to be proud of; our beautiful landscapes, kind and considerate people, a love of music, good food and our willingness to celebrate almost any life event without hesitation.

It is time to recognize that the symbolism of the current state flag is not who we are today. A time to let the rest of the nation know that the politics of the past two centuries are not who we are today. We have an opportunity to unite under one banner that speaks for all of our citizens.

Become a Master Gardener

SEA COAST ECHO

The Master Gardener volunteer program is a great way to gain horticultural expertise at a low cost, meet other avid gardeners, share gardening experiences, get connected to the community, and belong to a well-respected and educational organization. It is an educational exchange program offered through county offices of the Mississippi State University Extension Service. Through this program, individuals are trained and certified in horticulture and related areas. Topics covered through the Master Gardener program include basic plant biology, landscape design, lawn maintenance, managing insect and disease pests and many more.

In exchange for educational training, individuals are asked to volunteer their time to help county Extension offices with horticulture and education projects that benefit the local community. Master Gardeners help extend the educational arm of the university to the public by providing horticultural information based on university research and recommendations.

The Hancock County office of the Mississippi State University Extension Service will be offering training courses for anyone wanting to become a Master Gardener. The 2019 Master Gardener training classes will be Thursday, March 7th. Classes will be held at the Hancock County Extension office on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. for five weeks.

Coast Electric's Operation Round Up Now Accepting Grant Applications

SEA COAST ECHO

Kiln, Miss. — Local charitable organizations are now able to apply for grants of up to $10,000 because of the generosity of Coast Electric members' participation in the cooperative's Operation Round Up program.

Operation Round Up collects voluntary donations from Coast Electric members to benefit organizations in the cooperative's service area — Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River counties. The monthly bills of participating Coast Electric members are rounded up each month to the nearest dollar and put into the Coast Electric Community Trust, which is administered by the Gulf Coast Community Foundation.

While spare change might not seem like it would make a great impact, when this many people come together to do something good, it makes a big difference in our local communities. Of the funds collected, 65 percent will go to charities in the form of community grants, 25 percent will be used for energy assistance for members who need a little extra help paying their electric bills and 10 percent will be put into an endowment for future projects. Currently, 93 percent of Coast Electric members are participating in Operation Round Up and raised $37,937 with their spare change in the month of December. If this trend continues, Coast Electric members will be able to put an average of $450,000 annually into our communities.

"I am proud that this program will allow Coast Electric members to make such a huge, positive impact in our communities," said Coast Electric President and CEO Ron Barnes. "We know the people of south Mississippi are generous, but we also know that most people aren't able to give as much as they would like. Operation Round Up gives people the opportunity to make a difference in the lives of their friends and neighbors for an average of $6 a year. That's a great value."

Organizations that would like to apply for grants can find applications online at www.coastepa.com. Applications will be available through the month of February and the first round of grants will be awarded this spring. Applications will be available quarterly.

bridge taxes, and, community college taxes) for businesses including new structures in any of the proposed commercial development zones.

"The threshold amount of the investment to be considered under this program is $500,000," Mauffray said. "The developer here greatly exceeds that development price. It also sought approval from an MDA program that requires a minimum capital investment of $15 million, and they also met that threshold as well."

Mauffray said the anticipated direct benefit to the county from construction activities is about $77,000.

The project will create about 130 construction jobs and 50 permanent jobs after construction, Mauffray said.

"The expected benefit to the county annually would be $50,000 from its operations, which does not include the $55,000 expected benefits to the city of Bay St. Louis," Mauffray said. "The benefits received by the county are what we would call multi-tiered as businesses and developments of this magnitude can impact other businesses in the area and have a ripple effect throughout the county and surrounding communities."

Board President Blaine LaFontaine said the county would take the application and work with the tax assessor to evaluate it.

He added that there would be about a 30-day review period.

Mauffray said that he does not anticipate the review period affecting construction.

In other action:

The board approved a motion reappointing Cabrina Bell to the Pearlinton Water and Sewer District of Hancock County for a five-year term.

The board approved a motion to request an MDOT traffic study and placement of a light at the intersection of Highway 603 and Texas Flat Road.

The board also discussed the permit process for bonfires on the beach.

Supervisor Scotty Adam said the Bay St. Louis fire chief contacted him and said that people were leaving a mess on the beach.

People are also using pallets, which is prohibited, Adam said.

"The fire chief of Bay St. Louis asked me if we take over the permit process and take them out of the permit process since we're the ones cleaning the beach anyway or have the maintenance of the beach," Adam said.

Supervisor David Yarborough said the county had a permit process in place, and the reason the cities had their own permit process was because the cities have burn permits in the city.

"I don't have a problem with it, I'd rather have the county handle it anyway," he added. "We would probably need to get Waveland on board."

County attorney Gary Yarborough said — if the county is able to — the county would probably need to have an interlocal agreement in order for the county to assume the duties of issuing permits for beach bonfires.

He added that the county is obligated to maintain the beach by state statute.

The board took no action on the matter, but agreed to look into it.

The next meeting is scheduled for Feb. 19 at 9:30 a.m. After the meeting, the board is hosting "Red Beans and Real Estate—A Conversation with Realtors and County Leaders," beginning at 12:30 p.m. at the annex building.

The Council of Governments Meeting is scheduled for Feb. 14 at 3 p.m. at the Stennis Airport Terminal building.

Because the bill would result in decreased public safety, several Sheriffs have joined House Democrats in opposing the bill. We've seen this before in Mississippi and everyday Mississippians end up hurt or worse with no recourse against negligent House Democratic caucus members registered their support of House Bill 1494, a measure to include citizens with disabilities and the LGBTQ community in our Hate Crimes Law. It is simply the right thing to do to protect these AMR transported them to Garden Park Hospital.

However, that wasn't the end of the emergency.

"The impact caused the (18-wheeler's) fuel tank to leak," Adam said. "The driver said he had just filled up. About 100 gallons was inside the tank and spilled toward a single-wide trailer that the truck driver is renting. ... Right now we are looking at about 100 gallons of diesel on the ground.

"What's going to happen is, DEQ will be sending out a clean-up crew to get all of this up. Whatever is contaminated with the diesel is going to take awhile -- I imagine much of the night."

Officials threw dirt and an absorbent chemical over the diesel slick that covered the roadway in order to assure motorists could drive safely.

DEQ On-Site Coordinator Nick Hatten said his team would be hauling away and disposing of the contaminated soil, and would bring back whatever materials would be needed to fill in the driveway and yard.

Ladner said Fenton firefighters would be standing by most of the night to make sure the scene was safe and secure.

When firefighters arrived, Adam said, the double-wide mobile home was almost completely engulfed with flames.

Crews worked quickly to knock the fire down, Adam said. It took about an hour to fully smother the flames.

Leetown Fire, Post 58 Fire Department and Kiln Fire & Rescue assisted Fenton Fire at the scene.

An investigation is under way into what may have caused the incident, Adam said.

Lady Tigers & SSC Rocks host Class 4A South State championships in soccer

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
Staff Writer

The road to the Class 4A state finals for both boys and girls will, literally, go through Bay St. Louis this week.

On Tuesday evening the Bay High Lady Tigers hosted the Class 4A girls South State championship game while tonight the boys 4A South State championship game is being hosted by St. Stanislaus.

To advance to the Final Four in Class 4A girls, the Lady Tigers (13-9-2) went on the road to Poplarville this past Saturday and came away with a 2-0 shutout victory.

Marion Pohl put the Lady Tigers on the board in the first half and that score remained true until about five minutes remaining in the game when Breanna McDonald put up the insurance goal to make the final score 2-0.

Bay High head coach Colby Adam commented, "We came out and controlled the game from the start. Marion Pohl was able to score one in the first half to give us a lead. Breanna McDonald came into the game as a sub and scored the second goal with about five minutes left in the game. We played another great game defensively to keep Poplarville at bay."

The Rocks (14-6-4) had to travel to East Central on Saturday for their second round matchup.

The Rocks won the game 3-1 behind goals from Jackson Thriffiley, Max Matsenbaugh and Vory Reisch and an assist from Carter Landry.

SSC head coach Danny Patton stated, "It was definitely a tough match in round two but these playoff matches normally are. We were able to grind out a win and keep the season alive. Yhe Rocks will be at home Wednesday night against a tough Richland team. We need to get focused and ready for a battle."

The Rocks will host Richland tonight at 6pm. See you at the game!

Lady Wildcats looking to strengthen staff to lead the way in '19

POPLARVILLE, Miss. — The Pearl River softball team heads into the 2019 season with a strong blend of familiar faces and new names that has head coach Leigh White cautiously optimistic.

That's particularly true in the pitcher's circle. Not only do the Lady Wildcats have the luxury of returning two starters from a year ago — and a third with extensive pitching experience — but they add to their group three freshmen arms who could play big roles in '19.

"As a whole, we're looking good as a staff. We're a lot deeper than a year ago," White said. "We went from three pitchers last year to six who can throw."

Good fishing, but Weird acting Fish

We got a couple good days of weather over this past weekend, and we took full advantage of it. I got to run my crews down to the LA Marsh. Capt Kenny Shiyou took his crew in and around Bay St Louis. All the trips were a success, but both had a similar theme. The fish were acting very weird.

My Saturday crew, JT and Zack Rowell from Madison, MS have been fishing with us for years. They know how to fish. We were seeing redfish all day, but the bite was not a typical one. Normally the reds smash live minnows or shrimp. Hard hits, explosions, and screaming runs is the SOP. These fish were

by Capt. Sonny Schindler

soft tapping the live baits, and running directly at the boat. Almost all of the 15-20 reds we caught did this. The corks would barely move at all. Don't get me wrong, it was a great day, just not the usual aggressive redfish we see.

Capt Kenny had a taste of the same thing on his near shore trip. He had his wife Jesse, their friends Deke and Amy Necaise, along with their buddy Laney. They were looking for sheephead and puppy drum. Sounded like they found what they were looking for. He said it was about the softest biting fish he'd seen. If the lines weren't fished tight, you just gave away every live shrimp. Once they dialed in the technique, it was game on.

I guess that's what keeps us coming back, the challenge? Just when you think you've got these fish all figured out, they change the rules. I always enjoyed a challenge though, so bring it on!

As always, have fun and be safe.

VETERAN LEADER-SHIP

Although workhorse Olivia Holley (Biloxi) is now at William Carey, the Lady Wildcats return two experienced starters in recent Belhaven signee Dallas Blaker (Bay St. Louis; Our Lady Academy) and Rylee Swilley (Kiln; Hancock). PRCC has a third experienced arm in Krista Robles (Destrahan, La.), who pitched in 2017, but sat out last year due to injury.

Blaker and Swilley combined to pitch 169 1/3 innings in 2018 with a 8-5 record. Swilley boasted a 3.83 ERA, while Dallas had a 4.63 mark in the circle.

"Dallas and Rylee have a lot of experience. They know what it's going to take to get to that tournament at the end of the year, which is where we want to be," White said. "With their experience, they're going to lead these other ones. Those two are going to step up."

"I feel sure they're going to be our leaders in the circle this year. I'm looking forward to seeing them get back out there and grinding it out. The other ones are going to follow suit."

Blaker's calling card in the circle is her devastating changeup.

"Dallas spins the ball well. She has a changeup that will throw the batters off," White said. "You have to have a good changeup in this league to keep the batters off balance and that's what she does well. She has every pitch, but that changeup for her is really effective. She can spot it up."

Without tipping her pitches, Blaker said she spent the offseason working on ways to complement her out pitch.

"I've just been perfecting the little things I can fix," she said. "Last year my best pitch was my changeup so people are going to be looking for that. I have to perfect complementary pitches."

White sees a complete pitcher in Swilley; one who's not afraid to work both sides of the plate.

"Rylee has a lot of velocity. She commands the circle well and will sneak one on you inside and a lot of batters catch the handle," White said. "She will throw a changeup in there and it's really, really nasty after her speed pitches."

Like Blaker, Swilley has focused on rounding out her game — both in the circle and dugout.

"I have been trying to work on my spots, getting that spin right, and pinpointing it," she said. "I'm also trying to be a better leader. As a sophomore I know I have to step up."

"In the circle I have the ball in my hand to start every play, so I'm trying to step up and be a leader, whether it's vocally or through my actions."

In some ways Robles is an x-factor for the Lady Wildcats after being sidelined in 2018.

"She's coming along. Krista is more of a change-of-pace to throw you off type of pitcher," White said of Robles, who was 2-1 in 2017 with a 4.55 ERA in 40 innings. "She has a lot more movement and tries to make the batter swing at pitches. She wants to make you chase."

NEWCOMERS

White's blessed with three freshmen who she believes can fill any role, whether it's starter or reliever — roles, she said, which are still up for grabs.

"Every team we face can hit. What's great about us is we have six pitchers. What's great about that is teams are not going to know who we're going to throw," White said. "Any given game any of those girls can start. We're just trying to see what combination is going to work best for us."

Gracie Barnett (Vancleave) could be a power pitcher for PRCC.

"She can really throw it," White said. "She has a little heat coming behind it. She can really dominate in early innings."

Like Robles, Brianna Hargrove (Oakdale, La.) is a Louisiana product who should have an impact on the PRCC staff in '19.

"Bri has really had a good week of scrimmages," White said Monday. "She really got up there and stepped it up."

That was good for us to see that she got out there and really owned the circle."

The third freshman who will see time in the circle is Grace Stringer (Moselle; South Jones). White said Stringer already has good command and her velocity is progressing.

"She got out there and kept some of our batters off balance," White said. "She can really rattle the glove pretty good. She's picked up a lot of speed. With Grace she can spot it up well."

SECOND SATURDAY

'LOVE IS IN THE AIR' FOR OLD TOWN ARTWALK

SEA COAST ECHO

The Old Town Merchants Association (OTMA) and its members invite you to experience the Second Saturday Art Walk on Feb. 10. Also known as Second Saturday, the event has become a regional favorite and regularly draws visitors from New Orleans to Biloxi.

Love is in the air for this month's Second Saturday celebration for Valentine's Day, coming up on Feb. 14.

The Budweiser Clydesdales will also be stopping in Bay St. Louis on Saturday for the Art Walk. They will parade beginning at 5 p.m. at the Depot and will continue through downtown.

Each month during Second Saturday, two OTMA members are featured as Hot Spots, and the French Potager and 200 North Beach are this month's picks. Between 4 p.m. and 8 p.m., visitors can stop by the Hot Spots and other shops for refreshments and live music. Bring the kids! Pass a good time.

HOT SPOTS

THE FRENCH POTAGER

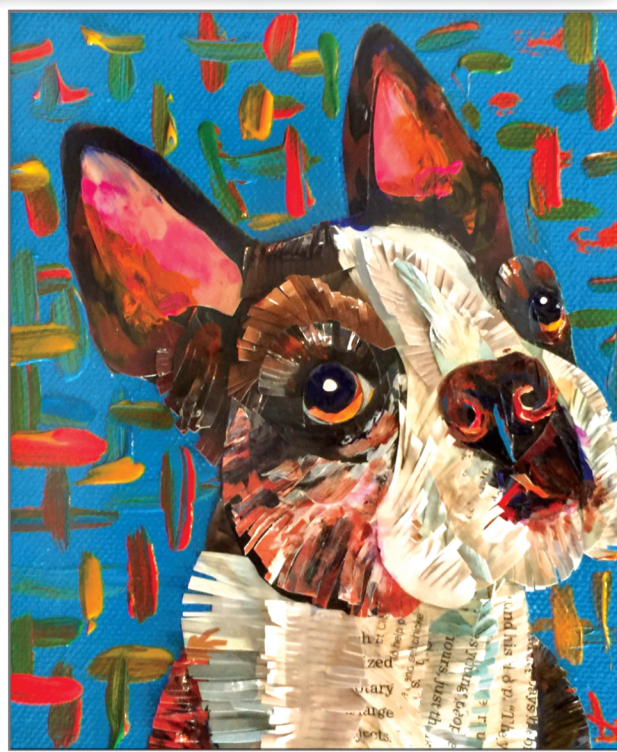

The French Potager, voted Best Florist/Floral Designer in Mississippi by Mississippi Magazine, and named the best antique mall and best antique jewelry by the M-List, is owned by Martha Whitney Butler.

Butler, who is also the lead floral designer, opened The French Potager in November of 2012 "after taking a leap of faith." This leap, as well as some classes provided by the Chamber of Commerce, allowed her to be able to "develop a sturdy five-year business plan."

She began as a small antique mall. Soon, the shop evolved to offer full-time floral services. "This business would allow me to travel to procure goods, have vendors with a diverse selection of antiques and gifts, and also create floral arrange-designer based on my talents and style like they would choose any other artist."

She is incredibly "honored and grateful to have appeared in several major and local publications." The awards speak for themselves, that this floral shop is the best around, and the community embraces it, just as Butler embraces the community.

"My favorite part about owning my shop is being a part of this beautiful community, its art scene, and being appreciated for my artistic talents. I've never lived in a place where I felt so celebrated, and everyday that I wake up in Bay St. Louis is a gift. The people here are some of the most resilient, loving, and talented people I have ever come across, and I feel like I'm a part of this community's fabric."

Butler's favorite events to design for include large-scale events for corporate accounts, weddings, and elopements. Being a floral designer is very personal, as they are really there for their customers from birth til the end, and Butler is honored to be a part of these events everyday.

"A florist is for live, and we are here to enhance all of your major life events, and share with you the joy of flowers. This is our calling and our privilege."

In the realm of antiques, you will find so many unique treasures inside the shop. "We have several different antique dealers from all walks of life giving us great variety of goods to sell." She makes sure to do everything she can to send each special piece home with ments." Since then, the shop has evolved even more. They now deliver all across the coast, and create floral designs for weddings and any other type of event. "The flowers come from all over the world, and we also sell as many local flowers as we can get our hands on."

Martha is an artist, and her floral arrangements exude creativity and beauty. "My floral designs are largely inspired by the nature around me," she says. Her inspiration for the shop comes from 17 years in the antique business and her travels, but she always makes sure to stop and appreciate the splendor of the world around her in order to stay inspired.

"My current designs embody a backyard garden feel, but according to what I'm inspired by, they could be completely different the next week. I try my best to accommodate the visions of my clients, but in reality, people get my best when they give me creative freedom, and I'm always hoping that they are choosing me as their 200 NORTH BEACH Dining in at 200 North Beach is quite a luxury. Located on Beach Boulevard, this restaurant gives you the fine dining experience that you are looking for on the Gulf Coast.

Mike Fusco became manager in September after having worked at a restaurant in the French Quarter for five and a half years. "I love Bay St. Louis," he says with a big smile on his face. Fusco's favorite part about being manager of 200 North Beach is getting to know the customers. Of course, looking at the beach everyday is a plus.

"Every place I've worked at has been very very high-paced and you don't really get to know the people that come in, and in Bay St. Louis, you see a lot of the same people over and over, you get to meet them all, and you get to learn about them instead of just having them be in here as somebody who is just having dinner; you get to know about them, where they're from, what they do, as people, versus just as customers" he says. "In other places that I've worked, its been so fast-paced that you never got that."

The restaurant just celebrated its seven year anniversary. It is no wonder 200 North Beach has been such a hit, as it offers delicious American Creole food, drinks, and daily specials that keep customers coming back for more.

Each day, there is a special, as well as a new lunch special every week, brunch on the weekends, featuring $4 Bloody Marys, mimosas, and sangria, daily drink specials, and a daily happy hour from 4-6, during which oysters and drinks are half price. The oyster special is the "best happy hour I think in Bay St. Louis" Fusco says. All of these specials are created to bring people in, and it is definitely working.

Another unique feature that sets 200 North Beach apart is the upstairs Balcony Sports Lounge that opened in September. It is "unique in that it's the only sports lounge in Bay St. Louis." Patrons can enjoy a drink while watching a football game on one of the six televisions in the comfort of this luxurious lounge, featuring a bar and large, sleek couches. It "creates more of an atmosphere where you can enjoy yourself" Fusco says.

It definitely is a destination, offering sweeping views of the bay. The Balcony Sports Lounge is open everyday, except Tuesdays, with Wednesday night being ladies night, during which women can have some time for themselves and enjoy $2 off glasses of wine and a drink special. The space is available to be rented for events as well.

In addition to 200 North Beach being a February "hot spot," they also have some things lined up for the month to accompany their usual offerings. There is a Valentine's Day menu that is already online, which includes a complimentary glass of champagne with your meal.

The chef will also be creating a "winter to early spring" menu to go with the new season, and an early bird special starting this month. For Second Saturday Art Walk on February 9, enjoy live music outside sponsored by Hancock Whitney Bank.

There is a lot to come for 200 North Beach as they move onto their eighth year of business, so do not wait to dine in for an incredible experience you will not get anywhere else.

SHARE THE LOVE: GALLERY 220 BRINGS AWARENESS TO OUR FURRY FRIENDS

Love is in the air and has provided inspiration for the artists of Gallery 220 Main as they prepare for their My Furry Valentine event on Saturday, February 9 from 4-8pm. It's not the romantic sort of love, but the unconditional love one receives from a pet that will be the focus for the evening. Located at 220 Main St. in Old Town Bay St. Louis, the gallery has planned several activities with proceeds to benefit The Friends of the Hancock Co. Animal Shelter(FHCAS), including an art raffle, hat contest, live music and refreshments.

Special musical guests, Jim and Marie Falgout, will begin playing at 4pm. Visitors can enjoy the music and refreshments as they view the animal themed art created by the 25 established and emerging artists of the cooperative art gallery. A special gift from Clay Creations will go to the first 50 people to bring a donation for the animal shelter. The FHCAS will be on hand to collect items such as blankets, food, kitty litter, animal crates, toys and cash.

All are encouraged to enter the Animal Hat Contest where prizes will be awarded for the Best in Show and Most Original. There are no limitations on the type of hat, be it a mask, headband or full costume. Let's see your favorite animal come to life during this family friendly contest.

The judging takes place at 6 p.m. and there is no cost for entry. A select group of art will be raffled at just $1 per ticket and includes pottery, paintings, photography and more. Sales of the art donated by the artists themselves, will give 100 percent of the proceeds to FHCAS. Viewing begins Saturday morning at 11 am and the drawing will be held at 7:30pm. Winners must be present. It's an excellent opportunity to own an original piece from one of the Gallery's talented artists.

Gallery 220 Main has worked with the Friends of the Shelter in the past and supports the 501(c)3 non-profit organization that seeks to end euthanasia as animal control and offers several programs to benefit the animals of Hancock County. Show your support by joining the cause. For additional information please call 228-466-6347 or visit Facebook @gallery220.

The government's business is your business.

And Mississippians count on their newspapers to keep apprised of public notice advertising.

Half of Mississippi adults recall reading or seeing public notice advertising in a local or state newspaper.

And almost half (46%) of adults who have seen public notice advertising prefer to receive them in a printed newspaper, much higher than any other source.

Most Mississippians (87%) say keeping the public informed through public notices and legal advertising is an important requirement for government agencies. And the preferred method of receiving these notices is in a printed newspaper along with their associated websites.

According to a 2013 Advertising and Media Use Survey*, legal ads in printed newspapers have a much higher credibility than other media.

Over 1.5 million Mississippians read their local newspaper. Whether in print, online or on the go, newspapers are the leading source of information for Mississippi.

There is power in print.

Children’s Advocates Group Representatives Gathered for Discussion, Hosted by Attorney Brehm Bell

SEA COAST ECHO

Brehm Bell, a Bay St. Louis attorney, recently hosted a luncheon to honor different local organizations that help children and families in Hancock County. The luncheon was organized by Bell to help recognize the needs of these groups that provide vital services throughout the year to children in our county. As the former youth court judge, Bell developed this tri-annual forum to both honor the hard work of these agencies and to keep the lines of communication open between the groups to better provide services to our community. In attendance were representatives from Kings Kitchen, the Boys and Girls Club, Hancock County Food Pantry, Hancock County Youth Court and Catholic Charities of South Mississippi. A practicing attorney in downtown Bay St. Louis since 1995, Bell focuses his practice on personal injury cases and helping people who are overwhelmed or frustrated with the legal process.

Elementary School community as a teacher, interventionist, lead teacher, assistant principal, and principal. During her two-year tenure as principal, Lacy has consistently held students and staff accountable to rigorous expectations for learning and teaching. This steadfast commitment to excellence led DeLisle Elementary School to achieve an “A” performance level rating, the highest possible rating within the Mississippi Statewide Accountability System, for the 2017-2018 school year. Lacy has also diligently worked to establish positive school culture in which all feel valued, safe, and respected. She implemented a school-wide house system that promotes a sense of community and belonging to all students and staff beyond academics and across all grade levels. Additionally, she established a Pirate Parent Academy in which teachers conduct workshops that empower families to support their children’s academic and social well-being.

As a steady presence throughout DeLisle Elementary School, Lacy demonstrates superior ability to lead and inspire others. According to 5th Grade teacher Rachael Childers, “Mrs. Lacy exemplifies what a school administrator should be. She cares for her students, staff, and community while maintaining high expectations and setting an example for us all to follow.” Mandy Lacy, wife of Ray

Lacy and mother of Mackenzie, Peyton, and Mia Clare Lacy, resides in Pass Christian. Naval Oceanography Honors First Hall of Fame Inductees, Dedicates New Supercomputers

John Okon and Technical Director Dr. Bill Burnett cut the ribbon at a ceremony on Jan. 25, 2019, at Stennis Space Center, Miss., marking the newest supercomputers named for Koehr, Gaffney and Durham.

SEA COAST ECHO

STENNIS SPACE CENTER. — Commander, Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command (NMOC) Rear Adm. John Okon hosted a ceremony on Jan. 25, to honor its very first Hall of Fame inductees and dedicate the latest supercomputers after the Naval Oceanography legends.

“We establish the Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Hall of Fame to preserve history, honor excellence and connect generations,” said Rear Adm. Okon. “When it came to selecting the first class we had over 30 years to cull over, and we knew this class would be like none other. They are the stalwarts of the community and the Navy, and I am humbled they are here with us today.”

Rear Adm. (ret.) James Koehr commanded then-named Naval Oceanography Command from 1984 to 1991. Dr. Donald Durham served as Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command’s technical/deputy director from 1989 to 2002, along with being the senior civilian executive and the top scientific advisor. Vice Adm. (ret.) Paul Gaffney II was commander, NMOC from 1994 to 1997.

“Growing up outside of St. Louis, I didn’t get my first airplane ride and see the ocean until I joined the Navy at 22. And eventually I became an oceanographer,” said Koehr.

Koehr began his tour as a captain until a special Navy selection board nominated him as the first oceanography designator officer for promotion to flag rank. His appointment to rear admiral became effective on Sept. 1, 1988. During his tour, Naval Oceanography developed into a national and world center of excellence through rapid developments in computers and supercomputers, satellite imagery and communication among other areas.

Durham oversaw the transition of the first high resolution global ocean prediction system into operations. He drove innovative and cost effective engagements with industry including cooperative research to search for Amelia Earhart’s lost Lockheed Electra.

Gaffney became the first naval oceanographer to attain the rank of vice admiral. He attained the visionary goal of making Naval Oceanography a true world-class supercomputing facility and delivered three oceanographic survey ships into the operational fleet—USNS Pathfinder, USNS Sumner and USNS Bowditch.

“Our competitors strive to shake our confidence. In order to keep our confidence from being shaken we must know what’s happening in the undersea domain. We have that here at Naval Oceanography and no other nation does,” said Gaffney.

The ceremony was attended by current and former staff members some of which served with the inductees.

“When I first started my career in Naval Oceanography, we had meteorology teams around the world that had less computer capabilities than I have on my phone today,” said Durham.

The program also included the unveiling of and ribbon-cutting on the newest DoD Supercomputing Resource Center’s supercomputers that were installed in 2018 and named after Koehr, Durham and Gaffney. These latest installations will now provide users with almost seven petaflops of computing capability and are among some of the fastest supercomputers in the world.

Naval Oceanography has approximately 2,500 globally distributed military and civilian personnel, who collect, process and exploit environmental information to assist Fleet and Joint Commanders in all warfare areas to guarantee the U.S. Navy’s freedom of action in the physical battlespace from the depths to the stars.

Pearl River, Hancock, Harrison & Stone County Farm Service Agency Announces County Committee Election Results

SEA COAST ECHO

The Pearl River, Hancock, Harrison & Stone County U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) Executive Director CED Dirk Dedeaux announced that County Committee elections are over and the ballots have been counted.

James Sones of Picayune was elected to represent local administrative area (LAA) #2.

“County Committee members are a critical component of the day-to-day operations of FSA,” said CED Dirk Dedeaux. “They help deliver programs at the county level and work to serve the needs of local producers. All recently elected County Committee members will take office in 2019 and will be joining the existing committee.” Every FSA office is required to have a County Committee, and they are made up of local farmers who are elected by local farmers.

Nearly 7,800 FSA County Committee members serve FSA offices nationwide. Each committee has three to 11 elected members who serve three-year terms of office. One-third of County Committee seats are up for election each year. County Committee members impact the administration of FSA within a community by applying their knowledge and judgment to help FSA make important decisions on its commodity support programs, conservation programs, indemnity and disaster programs, emergency programs and eligibility.

County Committee members impact producers through their decision making and help shape the culture of a local FSA office. They also ensure the fair and equitable administration of FSA farm programs in their counties and are accountable to the Secretary of Agriculture. Members conduct hearings and reviews as requested by the State Committee, ensure socially disadvantaged (SDA) farmers and ranchers are fairly represented, make recommendations to the State Committee on existing programs, monitor changes in farm programs and inform farmers of the purpose and provisions of FSA programs. They also assist with outreach and inform underserved producers such as beginning farmers and ranchers about FSA opportunities.
